ABSTRACT

There continues to be a significant disparity between the health status of minorities and nonminorities despite the improved health status of Americans in general. This bibliography contains 381 citations to information published between January 1983 and December 1988 concerning the following aspects of minority health: (1) health education; (2) health promotion; (3) attitudes towards health; and (4) availability of health services. Citations are limited to the United States and to ethnic groups identified in a search of the National Library of Medicine's MEDLINE database; women were not considered as a separate minority. Citations are arranged in the following three sections: (1) journal articles; (2) hearings, conference papers, and reports; and (3) monographs. The journal articles are subdivided into the following subject categories: (1) aging; (2) AIDS; (3) cancer; (4) cardiovascular diseases; (5) mental health; (6) adolescent pregnancy; (7) general pregnancy issues; (8) substance abuse; and (9) general health. Citations appear in only one category. A subscription order form is appended. (Author/FMW)

SERIES NOTE

Current Bibliographies in Medicine (CBM) is a continuation in part of the National Library of Medicine's Literature Search Series, which ceased in 1987 with No. 87-15. Each bibliography in the new series covers a distinct subject area of biomedicine and is intended to fulfill a current awareness function. Citations are usually derived from searching a variety of online databases. NLM databases utilized include MEDLINE, AVLINE, BIOETHICSLINE, CANCERLIT, CATLINE, HEALTH, POPLINE, AND TOXLINE. The only criterion for the inclusion of a particular published work is its relevance to the topic being presented; the format, ownership, or location of the material is not considered.

HEALTH EDUCATION AND PROMOTION FOR MINORITIES

Advances in medical technology and increased medical knowledge related to prevention, diagnosis, and treatment are factors contributing to an improved health status for America. The rising life expectancy of the nation provides evidence of improvement. Despite the improved health status of Americans in general, however, there continues to be a significant disparity between the health status of minorities and nonminorities.

This bibliography contains references to several aspects of minority health: health education, health promotion, attitude to health, and availability of health services. Citations are limited to the United States and the ethnic groups identified in the search strategy provided on the following page; women were not considered as a separate minority. References to journal articles, hearings, conference papers, reports, and monographs published between January 1983 and December 1988 are included. The journal articles have been subdivided into nine subject categories; citations appear in only one category.

SEARCH STRATEGY

A variety of online databases are usually searched in preparing bibliographies in the CBM series. To assist you in updating or otherwise manipulating the material in this search, the strategy used for the NLM's MEDLINE database is given below. Please note that the search strategies presented here differ from individual demand searches in that they are generally broadly formulated and irrelevant citations edited out prior to printing.

SS 1 = BLACKS OR HISPANICS OR INDIANS, NORTH AMERICAN OR HISPANIC AMERICANS OR ESKIMOS OR ASIAN AMERICANS OR ETHNIC GROUPS OR MINORITY GROUPS
